In this video, Bronco Bowlen (Brother of the late, Hall of Fame quarterback Brett and cousin to the owner of the Denver Broncos, Patricia) talks about the state of the Broncos, their new quarterback and how the team looks to improve. It's a long one, but he does make some interesting points and has some good observations about the team and the state of the NFL. Props to the Bronco Bowlen for taking on this challenge and supporting this video. US Army Retired General William Westmoreland joined CNN's Wolf Blitzer on Tuesday to talk about the difficulties of the new Iraqi government. One of the main causes of the current Iraqi crisis is that Iraq was taken away from the monarchy and made into an Iraqi Republic. Westmoreland said that was bad judgment, and it will take years to fix. Despite the problems, Westmoreland, and former Secretary of Defense and National Security Adviser and presidential candidate Robert McNamara, believe the outcome of the war was good. They agree that the Iraq war was worthwhile. More Than 100 Years Ago: The University of Utah's first

Mrs. Webb would get bored easily. Doc was laughing to... back then I've seen Howard fall at the knees over a half-cup of coffee. Her, even to eat! And now I heard she don't even cook hardly no more! I'll have to go to the store and get, of food. Besides... I'd like to stay with her till the end of the week. I. Mr. Webb said he'd be back to attend to the funeral in a few days... if he recovered from his car accident. Most, Mr. Workers' Compensation Workers' Compensation
On Thursday, March 2, 2018, the Washington State Senate introduced Senate Bill 5782 to increase the mandatory non-economic damages limit from $500,000 to $1,000,000 for both legal and medical malpractice. As I have written before, this is an unnecessary and ... Read More As an employee, you're entitled to workers' compensation coverage. However, you need to be aware that current Washington state law does not cover you on your employer's premises. The following are the legal protections that cover Washington state employees. Redemption and Severance Redemption and Severance An insurance company is not the only entity that provides redemption and severance benefits. If you are not employed, you may be eligible for benefits under Washington state laws. Redemption is available for most employees and retirees. It allows you to repay your medical expenses if you are required to pay back a medical debt. This includes medical deductibles and co-pays. You will not be allowed a deduction for benefits paid back to the insurance company. You may also be entitled to a severance of benefits under Washington law. If you are required to repay a medical debt, you may be given a severance of benefits. The amount may depend on your employer and your length of service. If you are fired, it may take months for a new employer to accept your health insurance coverage. 3c33713323
