WPI-Word Picture Insert Description: (A) I give a shout out to Afshan Khan who used this really cool JPG to PDF converter at this year's ServiceNow summit. It is really nice to see a serious business using a tool that is open source. The converter is licensed under the LGPL 2.1 and is really simple to use: just drag and drop an image, the converter will be notified that the image contains a detailed specification of the file type and any embedded metadata (such as the image authors, copyright information, etc.). Then you just click a button to convert it. No technical know-how required! We published a new SOAP service so that an admin can schedule the conversion or instruct the converter to run unattended if they do not have direct access to the computer with the images.
