Show more Show lessPhorbol ester-induced neuritogenesis in PC12 cells: a comparison between the classical and the calcium-like second messengers. The effect of the diacylglycerol (DAG) phospholipase C (PLC) stimulator phorbol 12-myristate 13-acetate (PMA) on PC12 neuritogenesis was compared with that of a few other intracellular messengers, and with a classical stimulus--cAMP. PLC stimulation induced early but transient neuritogenesis, which was increased and prolonged by bradykinin, to a degree similar to that evoked by PMA, but failed to induce neuritogenesis in the absence of serum. In contrast, PMA at its endogenous concentration of 5 microM induced a long-lasting neuritogenic response in serum-free medium, which was insensitive to pertussis toxin (PTX). Like PMA, the effect of PMA was blocked by staurosporine and calcimycin, but not by the PTX-sensitive Ca2+ ionophore A23187. Stimulation of the PLC pathway caused DAG to increase twofold, an effect that was long lasting and prevented by PTX, but which failed to evoke neuritogenesis. These results suggest that DAG, acting via the inositol 1,4,5-trisphosphate (IP3) receptor and PKC-C, is the major intracellular messenger involved in the phorbol ester effect and that PKC activation, at least in this cell system, is a prerequisite for the initiation of the neuritogenic response. In addition, our results suggest that the use of PMA as a stimulator in experiments on growth factor-induced neuritogenesis is more appropriate than direct PLC stimulation.//000000 #include #include using namespace std; //0000000000 00000 00 bool isAlive (char *filename, char *errMsg) { HANDLE hFile;

What's new:

Starpoint Gemini 3 Old time strategy fan? The new Starpoint Gemini 3 is a hardcore turn-based space strategy game, with roguelike elements. Originally released for the PC and then for Mac in 1996, it was followed by two direct sequels, with the third and final game being released a year after. In Starpoint Gemini 3, you take control of a lowly maritime trader trying to eke out a living in the outer reaches of the Starpoint Gemini galaxy. During a routine trade run, you encounter an enemy vessel, which forces you to abandon your trade and engage in a dogfight. Your ship and fighter module are damaged, causing you to lose all cargo, trade goods and fuel. The enemies then board your crippled ship, and begin a terrible melee fight in your engine room. Your crew members are your only hope, and if any get killed, they stay dead. Eventually, your crew manages to overpower the enemy and disable their fighter engines, and you can begin repairs. The voyage back to your home world takes much longer than expected, and the pirates become more aggressive, so you have to endure many more combat, repair and exploration missions. If you're up for a challenge, Starpoint Gemini 3 Free For All is available for Linux through Linuxgame. The Roguelike Mod adds a whole new level of difficulty, with 12 additional game modes (some of which are unlocked during the campaign), additional ship types, new factions, and many more gameplay tweaks and adjustments. Features: Features Starpoint Gemini 3: 100 new combat missions, created specifically for modding.
